

Discerning God's Intervention in Tragedy & in Triumph: The Case of Sennacherib's Invasion of Judah in the Bible & Archaeology

How can we identify God's activity amidst the events that befall us? If things go in our favor, do they indicate God's favor? If life brings us hardships, do they indicate his judgment or discipline? Or, should we trace these circumstances to human choices? God's revelation in the Bible, being mostly narrative and poetry, does not give us pat answers. Instead, this canonical anthology reflects a complexity of perspectives on divine intervention, from which we begin to appreciate God's panoramic perspective.

Dr. Craig Broyles
Professor of Religious Studies
Trinity Western University

Dr. Craig Broyles is currently professor of Religious Studies at Trinity Western University. Dr. Broyles has earned advanced degrees in biblical studies from Regent College and Sheffield University. He has authored numerous works on Isaiah and the Psalms, including critically acclaimed New International Biblical Commentary on Psalms.

Lecture SERIES

Monday
April 28, 2008 @ 7:00 pm
The Mount Baker Theatre
Bellingham, WA